Swamp-Bred Mosquitoes Keep Families Indoors

F. Walker, St. Giles Road, points out one of the many swampy areas in which the mosquitoes breed. Mr. Walker poured four gallons of motor oil over part of the area yesterday, but said he realized this would be ineffective. He holds a handful of squirming larvae in his hand.

Victoria residents have always boasted proudly that their only mosquito was this one, posing on a mirror, which is harmless and wouldn't bite a soul. His home is in the museum.

Mosquitoes Plague Helmcken District

By EILEEN LEAROLD

Residents of View Royal and Strawberry Vale districts are being plagued by mosquito swarms unique on southern Vancouver Island.

Millions of the insects breed in a swampy field on Helmcken Road near Vickery Road. Portage Inlet borders the extreme end of the area. Water appears to run down to the field from a higher area and collect in large potholes to form ideal breeding spots.

H. Vickery, owner of the field, says he has tried to eliminate breeding areas by filling them with sawdust, but this has been inadequate. Provincial government health officials have declared the department has no facilities for mosquito control.

A Colonist photographer and reporter went to the district yesterday to investigate numerous complaints.

HARDY BREED

Conditions should have been poor for the pest, for the sun was shining and there was a brisk breeze, but evidently when they raise mosquitoes on Helmcken Road they breed a hardy variety.

The photographer was soon covered by a humming cloud.

"They're always like me," he said modestly.

F. Walker, a boatbuilder of 138 St. Giles Street complained that the insects are so bad that he is driven crazy when working outside.

Other residents like Mrs. A. Thompson, 131 Helmcken Road, find they have to keep their children indoors.

"I haven't let my five-year-old twins outside even during the daytime," said Mrs. Thompson. "If I do, they get so bitten that they lie awake all night in misery. It is torment for everyone."

Mrs. A. Gardiner on Vickery Road felt the same way.

"The only time my three children get out of the house is when I take them to town," she said.

Mr. Vickery, one of the district's oldest residents has done everything possible to clear up the situation. He has given himber mills permission to dump sawdust over the area and has bulldozed and leveled as much of it as he could.

"I've filled up at least 11 of the big breeding holes this way," he said, "but recently I was ordered to stop filling in sawdust as the fire chief says it's a fire hazard."

Mr. Vickery said the mosquito menace there is not new. He remembers them breeding in the district since 1908.

Mr. Walker has also tried to alleviate the situation. A few days ago he poured four gallons of motor oil on some of the pools. "Not nearly enough," he said in disgust.

Some of the residents said C. R. Stonehouse, chief sanitary inspector for the provincial health department, had visited the area recently.

"That area," said Mr. Stonehouse, "is a mosquito breeding area."

It was suggested that something might be done about clearing it up.

"It is not a common practice," said Mr. Stonehouse. "In fact there is simply no government department for mosquito control."

NEWS TO INSPECTOR

Let's straighten this out," said Mr. Stonehouse. "Until I was asked to see the area I didn't know we had a mosquito on Vancouver Island."

Mr. Stonehouse suggested two recipes for eliminating the pests. One is to spread motor oil mixed with DDT over the breeding holes, the other is to spread a mixture of plaster of paris, benzene hexachloride and DDT dust.

"I feel that the residents could get together and solve the problem themselves," he said.

NO DISEASES

The sanitary inspector noted that the district was unorganized territory and added that in countries where mosquitoes spread diseases, there were government projects to eliminate them. B.C. mosquitoes he said, do not spread disease.

Perhaps knowing that the buzz of a B.C. mosquito is worse than its bite will cheer the itching residents.

Troop-Withdrawal Issue To Follow on Cease-Fire

Allied, Red Delegates Agree on Agenda Points

U.N. ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, July 27 (Friday) (AP)—The 11th meeting toward a cease-fire in the Korean war adjourned today after a 75-minute session.

There was no immediate announcement of developments during the conference in which United Nations and Communist delegations tackled four vital issues on which a cease-fire depends.

It was announced the conference will be resumed at 10 a.m. tomorrow (5 p.m. EDT, Friday). In a 58-minute session Thursday the conferees agreed on a five-point agenda in nine minutes, and spent the remaining time in preliminary discussion of the basic issues.

TOUCHY ISSUE

The question of withdrawing all foreign troops from Korea was not on the agenda, but provisions were made to take up this touchy matter after a cease-fire becomes effective.

The Peking radio, confirming the agenda, said it was agreed that a "higher-level" meeting within "a certain time" would discuss withdrawing foreign troops "by stages" from Korea.

There was no indication when such a meeting would be held, or by whom.

Red demands for immediate withdrawal of foreign forces had been the stumbling block to earlier agreement on an agenda.

A sharp warning against optimism for an early end of the 13-month-old war was issued by the agenda.

In Washington, State Secretary Dean Acheson said that if the armistice talks should collapse "we should be ready for major Communist assault... the enemy has been building up his forces throughout this period."

AGREE ON POINTS

In seeking an armistice, the U.N. and Red delegations have agreed to discuss these points:

1. Adopt an agenda which they did immediately.

2. Fix a military demarcation line and establish a demilitarized zone between the two belligerents. This buffer zone would be a basic condition for ending hostilities.

3. Make firm arrangements for realization of a cease-fire and armistice in Korea, including the composition, authority and function of a supervising organization for carrying out the terms of the cease-fire. This referred to creation of a neutral international group to see that neither side violates the terms of the armistice.

The Allied negotiators are believed to be insistent that this group be given authority to travel freely behind the lines.

4. Make arrangements relating to the exchange of prisoners of war.

5. Make recommendations to the governments of the countries concerned on both sides. This last item apparently covered future discussion of the Communist demands that all foreign troops be withdrawn from Korea "as a practical condition" for a final peace.

U.N. troops attacked under a barrage of mortar and artillery fire.

The Communists counter-attacked and their artillery-fire forced U.N. troops to withdraw.

A co-ordinated attack north-west of Yanggu was aimed at hills dominating the Allied left and right flanks. By later afternoon an air strike was called in to cover U.N. forces falling back in the face of relentless Red artillery.

Another Allied attack north-east of Yanggu was likewise stopped, as was a drive on a hill north of Inje.

ROME, July 26 (AP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi and his seventh cabinet took office today, pledged to "loyal support" of the North Atlantic Pact.

The 70-year-old Christian Democrat leader announced his reshuffled cabinet to end Italy's 10-day government crisis. A major change involved De Gasperi taking over as foreign minister from the ailing 77-year-old Carlo Sforza, who became a minister without portfolio.

ALLABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

Tourist trade section of Victoria Chamber of Commerce will ask 25 visitors a day why they came here, how they like Victoria and how long they plan to stay.

Our undercover reporter is one jump ahead of them. He has already conducted his own quiz of people he met at random on the Causeway, and here are some of the results.

"You there, sir, are you a visitor? What's your name, and where do you come from? We're conducting a quiz."

"How much can I win?"

"A washing machine, a yacht, three packets of Toastie-Woasties, and... what am I saying? No, sir, this quiz is purely in the public interest."

"Well, I'm a seaman. I just came ashore to have myself a time. Where can you get a drink in this settlement, Buster?"

"You can't."

"Any dances? Girls? Night clubs? Croquet tournaments?"

"No, but..."

"That's all, Buster. I'm going back to the ship."

"Guess I'm picking the wrong types. Excuse me, sir. We're conducting a quiz. Would you be kind enough to tell me your name and address?"

"Why, certainly, son. I'm Elmer T. Snogglesuk of Small River, Idaho."

"And why did you come here, sir?"

"Well, I came here to see the Chateau Frontenac where the Governor-General lives, and watch the House of Lords sitting, and play a couple of games of lacrosse with my wife. Brought my gun, and I figured I might be able to get in on a foxhunt and maybe also shoot a mountain goat."

"Have you managed to carry out any of these plans yet?"

"No, but I sure mean to. Just got here half an hour ago. We're going along to have some tea and crumpets."

"Thank you, sir. And now this gentleman. What's your name, sir, and where do you come from?"

"My name is Earl D. King, and I'm from Los Angeles. The D. stands for Duke. Earl Duke King is the name. Who wants to know?"

"We're conducting a quiz. Why did you come to Victoria, please?"

"I came here to get some peace and quiet, and I sure made a mistake. First thing, some girl splits my ears with these things they call bagpipes. Then six cars turn near knock me flat. This town sure run downhill since I was here last."

"You've seen some changes, eh?"

"Changes? Why, listen, this used to be the cutest little town you ever did see. There wasn't a car in the place. All they had was hansom cabs. Ivy on all the buildings. Grass on the streets. Firemen used to ride out to fires on a mule-cart. Came to Victoria to hear myself think."

"When were you last here, sir?"

"July, 1900. Now the town has gone modern. They even got telephones. Victoria's no place for a holiday any more. I'm leaving on the next boat. Why did they have to do that to us?"

"Maybe the people who live here wanted it that way, sir."

Ratepayers Rebuffed By C.P.R.

Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association will likely have to keep looking for someone to underwrite the cost of a special Victoria-to-Pott Alberni return trip on the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway.

R. J. Burland, district passenger agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway, said the line had not taken any action on a ratepayers' request that the C.P.R. guarantee the cost. The reply will be sent to George E. Bonner, association president, he said.

The association is trying to arrange a special trip on the line in an attempt to prove that the public would support improved service.

Truman Denies Reprisal Planned Against General

WASHINGTON, July 26 (INS). — President Truman declared today that no reprisals are contemplated against Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Mr. Truman was asked about

MacArthur's statement in a speech Wednesday night that the administration might be contemplating disciplinary action against him.

Asked whether he intended any reprisals against the general, he said he could reply "no" to that. Mr. Truman declared he has never heard of reprisals being made against a military man for testimony given on Capitol Hill. He said if such were contemplated, he wouldn't permit the man to testify in the first place.

Acheson Tells Of Huge Plan For World Aid

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP). — State Secretary Dean Acheson set before Congress today a world-wide aid program costing $25,000,000,000 for the defense of American allies in the next three years.

That is the price, he said, to counter Russia's designs and bring about "an era of genuine relaxation of tension."

Acheson said Spain will get a share of the money, he did not say how much, but he added "considerable time must elapse" before Spain could be admitted to the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance.

Testifying before the Senate foreign relations committee, Acheson disclosed that the administration's current request for $8,500,000,000 in foreign aid is only the first installment in a proposed long-range program.

Two more installments of about the same size will be needed, he said, to equip U.S. allies in Europe and Asia.

Oddities

OTTAWA, July 26 (CP). — Police rushed to suburban New Edinburgh's swimming pool yesterday in answer to a report that a 10-year-old boy had dived in and failed to come up.

Police got out their grappling hooks and dragged the pool. Valves were opened to drain the big basin.

Finally an interested young bystander asked:

"Who you looking for?"

Told it was the 10-year-old, he replied:

"Oh, him. He went home for supper long ago."

FOLKESTONE, England, July 26 (AP). — Life on the ocean wave is not for Sammy the seal.

Young Sammy wandered away from his mother and turned up on the beach at Walmer Monday, barking plaintively.

An S.P.C.A. agent put him in a boat and dumped him out in mid-Channel.

Back swam Sammy — this time to Seabrook, 20 miles down the Kent coast from Walmer. The next day a fishing boat dropped him off once again midway between England and France.

Yesterday Sammy turned up at Hythe.

The Folkestone S.P.C.A. sighed and decided to rear Sammy with a baby bottle until he gets old enough to learn his proper element.

Unexpected Bullet In Head of Patient

NEW YORK, July 26 (INS). — Doctors at Kings County Hospital disclosed today that a 42-year-old Brooklyn woman whose right eye was removed yesterday has had a bullet in her head possibly for more than a year.

The woman, Mrs. Catherine Hines, 42, a policeman's widow, insisted she did not know how, when or where she was shot.

Medical authorities and police were even more astonished than Mrs. Hines.

There was no external sign of the bullet's entry. It has not yet been removed.

Doctors said the operation to remove the eye was decided on before the presence of the bullet was discovered.

Chilliwack Valley Severely Hit By Seven Weeks Without Rain

CHILLIWACK, B.C., July 26 (CP). — Seven weeks of drought are leaving a heavy mark on the Chilliwack Valley, one of Canada's most fertile farm areas and heart of the Fraser Valley's dairy industry.

It is seven weeks and more since the last rain of any amount fell in Chilliwack and its environs and hundreds of thousands of dollars has been lost. Since April far less than half the average amount of rain has fallen.

The thermometer often ventures into the 90-degree bracket and fields and pastures are burned dry.

The strawberry crop that normally provides the large part of many a farmer's income was all but a failure. Raspberries, which were just getting back on their feet after the 1948 flood, now are drying on the vines. Peas ripened too quickly and many were lost before they could be handled by packing plants.

Farmers have been forced to put their dairy cattle on winter feeding schedules and supplies of hay and ensilage cannot be laid away.

Agriculture agent George Chalenger said the worst feature of the drought is the fact that farmers are now feeding hay and ensilage which normally would be fed next winter.

"The picture is grim," he said. "There won't be any pasture for a couple of months even if it does rain."

Mr. Challenger said that he could not remember a year when hay had been imported for summer feeding in the Chilliwack area.

"The result, as I see it, is that a lot of farmers will be cutting their herds down which will mean a faster drop in milk production."

Orders Needn't Be Published

Emergency Powers Act Gets Secrecy Approval

OTTAWA, July 26 (CP). — As a result of a recent order approved by the Cabinet, the federal government will not be obliged to publish all orders and regulations passed under provisions of the new Emergency Powers Act, it was disclosed today.

The act, passed at the last session of parliament, gave the government sweeping powers to deal with almost any situation during an emergency. The powers were almost as broad as under the War Measures Act, in force during the First and Second World Wars.

The government will not have to publish any orders passed under the Emergency Powers

Stock Gyps Cost U.S. $9,000,000

TORONTO, July 26 (CP). — O. E. Lennox, chairman of the Ontario Securities Commission, estimated today that some Toronto brokers, holding out false hopes to buyers, take about $9,000,000 a year from the United States.

Mr. Lennox testified before the Ontario Legislature Crime

Committee, investigating the administration of criminal justice in the province. He said the better business bureau of St. Louis, Mo., had estimated that high-pressure Toronto brokers took $32,000,000 yearly from the U.S.

This is an exaggeration, Mr. Lennox contended. It would be more correct to place the yearly take at about $9,000,000.

The commissioner said American buyers are being victimized by a small group of fly-by-night stock brokers. Their fraudulent practices, he said, are sharply reducing the flow of U.S. capital into Canada.

Suggest Six Points For Peace

British Quakers Meet Malik

MOSCOW, July 26 (Reuters). — A delegation of seven British Quakers met Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob Malik here today and suggested six points on which Russia could take the initiative in consolidating a true peace.

The Quakers suggested Russia should:

1. Restrain hostile propaganda against the West.

2. Permit a measured re-opening of intercourse with the West on a non-political basis.

3. Show willingness to pledge non-intervention in the internal affairs of non-Communist countries.

4. Show willingness to participate in internationally-controlled disarmament.

5. Show willingness to co-operate in a world plan for mutual economic aid to improve living standards in all countries in the United Nations.

6. Show willingness to facilitate the admission to the United Nations of countries at present excluded.

With respect to hostile propaganda against the West, Malik challenged the Quakers to name any Soviet newspaper, public organization or personage who called for an attack against the United States, Britain or any other state. The Russian added that a special Soviet law prohibited such war propaganda under penalty of severe punishment.

Weekly wages and salaries averaged $49.13, also a new high compared with $44.88 at May 1, 1950, and $48.43 at the beginning of April this year.

"It Was a Beautiful Day"

THE LACONIC comment of a Royal Air Force pilot who had just completed a 3,558-mile flight over the roof of the world from Iceland to Alaska by way of the North Pole in a four-engine bomber with a crew of 10 men was a typically British understatement of the importance of a very "good show." Said Wing Commander R. T. Frogley, in charge of the flight: "It was a beautiful day at the North Pole . . . a jolly good flight." Pages of advance publicity and reams of comment after the event could not have achieved more, if as much, as these few unexcited words. Yet here was a flight that made history, further proof in the growing chain of evidence that the Arctic Circle is the flying hub of the world, and no doubt the main air route between continents when peace has come again to grace this globe.

The flight was made as a routine exercise by a stock model British Arries bomber, which covered the distance between Keflavik, Iceland, to Fairbanks, Alaska, in 18 hours and 54 minutes. The flight plan included a near visit, if not a direct crossing, of the North Pole. Even to hear that it was "a beautiful day" at the pole, without even an armistice committee in sight, should do things for a restless, nerve-wracked world. Deeper by far, however, is the lasting significance of the flight, for good or for ill as the world may elect. It is in keeping with the piece that the R.A.F. bomber and its crew were preparing just as unconcernedly to fly back today to Monby, England, a mere jump of some 4,128 miles. Good luck go with them and may that, too, be a "jolly good flight."

Death Stalks the Highways

VICTORIA and the southern part of the Island got through the first half of this year with an encouragingly small number of highway accidents accompanied by death or serious injury, giving rise to hope that efforts to promote safe driving practices had at last begun to take effect. Latterly, however, that hope has been dashed by a succession of particularly horrible accidents taking human lives. The number of persons killed outright or fatally injured on the highways of this area since the beginning of the year has climbed with disturbing suddenness to eight—a small total perhaps by comparison with the grim records of this continent, but large enough to occasion public concern.

Regrettable as it may be, however, the recent increase is not altogether surprising. This is the time of year when the accident rate almost invariably rises in proportion to the increase in traffic density. People on their way to or from vacation resorts and outdoor attractions crowd the highways, and to many the holiday mood brings with it an irresistible urge to hurry, to drive a little or a lot faster than conditions warrant, taking chances on gradients and curves that they might not take at other times. Unfortunately the more cautious driver who makes allowance for the summer increase in danger factors is as likely as not to be the victim of some other driver's recklessness or momentary neglect of one of the fundamental safety rules.

Traffic regulations, roadside warning signs and highway police officers can do only so much to prevent accidents. The primary responsibility is always that of the individual motorist, and there can be little improvement until the careless driver is made to realize that he or someone he hits may be the next to be killed or maimed. The pictures of wrecked vehicles now appearing in the newspapers almost daily provide their own grim warning.

It's Worth the Cost

IF THE navy cannot afford to keep up the Royal Roads conservatory it has offered to the city, can the city? This is the only stumbling block to an immediate acceptance of the offer. The civic purse is hard pressed these days, and an outlay of $8,000 for moving the conservatory and an annual maintenance charge of $16,000 makes up a substantial item for a new amenity.

Yet a greenhouse of this nature would be an asset to the community, and under the competent care of the parks department it would add greatly to the horticultural features of this city of gardens. Obviously it would be another and popular attraction for tourists, although one hopes its value to residents is not being overlooked. Victoria in the main exists for the people who live here, a fact not always appreciated.

In this case it is unfortunate that the trust deed of Beacon Hill Park prohibits an admission charge to any function or display, since this would be the ideal location for the conservatory and it is apparent a charge may have to be made if the naval offer is to be accepted. One just outside the park, as has been suggested, or some other site close to the centre of the city might be suitable enough, however.

The finance committee is studying the matter and it will be for it to make the final recommendation. By and large, however, the offer is too good to pass up. Enough revenue should be forthcoming from a tropical conservatory to enable the city to carry the load, or at least go far in that direction. Amenities have to be paid for, and this seems to be one that would be worth its cost.

Readers' Forum

Letters to the editor on any topic of general interest are welcome if they are brief, accurate and fair. No letter will be inserted in whole, or in part, except after the proper signature and address of the writer. Unsolicited correspondence cannot be returned.

BUTTE LAKE

Sir.—Defense of Butte Lake by Roderick L. Haig-Brown and your correspondent Robert D. Harvey, K.C., is heartening to those lovers of the natural beauty of our parks, who look with apprehension on the attack from the B.C. Power Commission in the name of greater and cheaper power.

There is plenty of room for industrial development in British Columbia without encroaching on the property and lawful rights of our people. Strathcona Park was dedicated to the citizens of this land as a sacred trust, and no commission, be they ever so powerful, has any right to trespass.

More important, if Butte Lake is not defended and the proposed dam is erected a precedent will be created on this Island which may lead to the desecration of all our beautiful natural parks.

The advocates of hydro-electric power appear to have gone "dam mad," they do not seem to realize that the rapid advances in atomic research will make their dams obsolete within twenty years.

The vast sums of public money which the B.C. Power Commission find so easily to spend should be put to better and more lasting benefits, such as the creation of an irrigation scheme for the drought-stricken Fraser Valley and Saanich Peninsula.

Let right be done.

DENIS H. BESLEY.

536 Simcoe Street, Victoria, B.C.

BUTTE LAKE

Sir.—The argument on behalf of the people of this province on the projected damming of Butte Lake in Strathcona Park by the B.C. Power Commission is presented very squarely by Mr. Robert D. Harvey in his letter of July 24. Let us hope that many other of our citizens will take an active interest in the open hearings on this issue. There will be a hearing in Victoria on Monday morning, August 13, at 9:30 o'clock in the Legislative Buildings as given out from the provincial secretary's office.

Since (as the letter points out) a former government created the park a public trust in perpetuity for the inhabitants of British Columbia surely there is no right by which the present government could break that trust. To save a few thousand dollars more or less it is suggested on the alternative of damming the upper Campbell Lake.

The idea of a government-blessed move for economy might seem excellent in the abstract, but is this the right one to begin with when our people persist in revealing an affection for their parks undispelled? Some of them, too, have a stubborn notion that utility companies sit up nights anyway figuring out how high it is still safe to set the rates in spite of any such economy as appropriating their Butte Lake.

HOUSING PRESSURE

Sir.—With reference to the building housing the old men on Johnson Street, who is responsible for this idea of destroying these peoples' homes when low rental housing is so scarce? While building costs are so high, surely attention should be directed to conserving, not destroying.

Each room in that building represents a home to some old soul, where he can enjoy a little privacy and independence, and have perhaps a cat or a canary. If the plumbing is unsatisfactory, why isn't it put in order? Couldn't some service club donate this?

It would seem that the Old Men's Home is in need of attention from the City Fathers, when there are so many vacancies and apparently such great pressure has to be brought on individuals to get them to enter.

DRIFTING?

Sir.—With the whole world drifting towards the greatest climax ever known in human history, let us remember the warning:

"For when they shall say, Peace and Safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape."

Just now, London newspapers are so full of test matches, cup ties, glove fights, tennis tournaments, dog races, horse races, and the matrimonial tournaments of film stars, that matters concerning the fate of humanity are pushed into the background. If I sent this letter to a London newspaper, it would make them laugh.

And we are warned that it would be so, for the whole world is to be taken entirely by surprise: "as in the days of Noah." Strange that after all these centuries, Faith should be nearly dead, or dying.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THE tantalizing speculation is being made, I see, that next year Churchill and Eisenhower might team up in a cross-Atlantic partnership akin, only more so, to their wartime association.

Since we are part of the grand alliance this is intriguing to Canadians.

What they do over there, meaning England, or across the border, meaning the U.S.A., has a direct effect on our future, as well you know. Canada, so often we have been told, is a link between these two great nations; it is also, although this is not so often told, sometimes like the ham between two pieces of bread.

However, Winnie and Ike, as they are familiarly known and as the prognosticators believe, might run in double harness again—Churchill back at 10 Downing Street and Eisenhower, in a new location, the White House. And this, they think, would be a godsend, as perhaps it would. Certainly Anglo-American relations, none too lovey-dovey at the moment, might get a new friendship shot in the arm.

The assumption is of course that Mr. Attlee is tired of walking the parliamentary tightrope, which he has manipulated with some skill for more than a year, and will go soon to the polls. And be defeated.

This would return the ebullient Winnie to the office from which he was summarily ejected, which undoubtedly would suit both himself and America no matter what some Britons might think. And if he had the wit to resign after about a year and let Anthony Eden, so long the crown prince, rule in his stead that would round out his career nicely.

In his way General Eisenhower is an even more intriguing proposition. For a soldier, and brass hats are not supposed to be too subtle, he's a remarkably adept politician. The American system permits rather queer deviations, I know, but here is a man who seemingly can have either the Republican or Democratic nomination for the asking.

Mr. Taft would differ from this, but obviously each of these parties feels it could win in a canter with Ike as its standard-bearer. That is a very happy situation for an aspirant, and while Eisenhower is neatly coy about the whole thing this situation didn't happen accidentally.

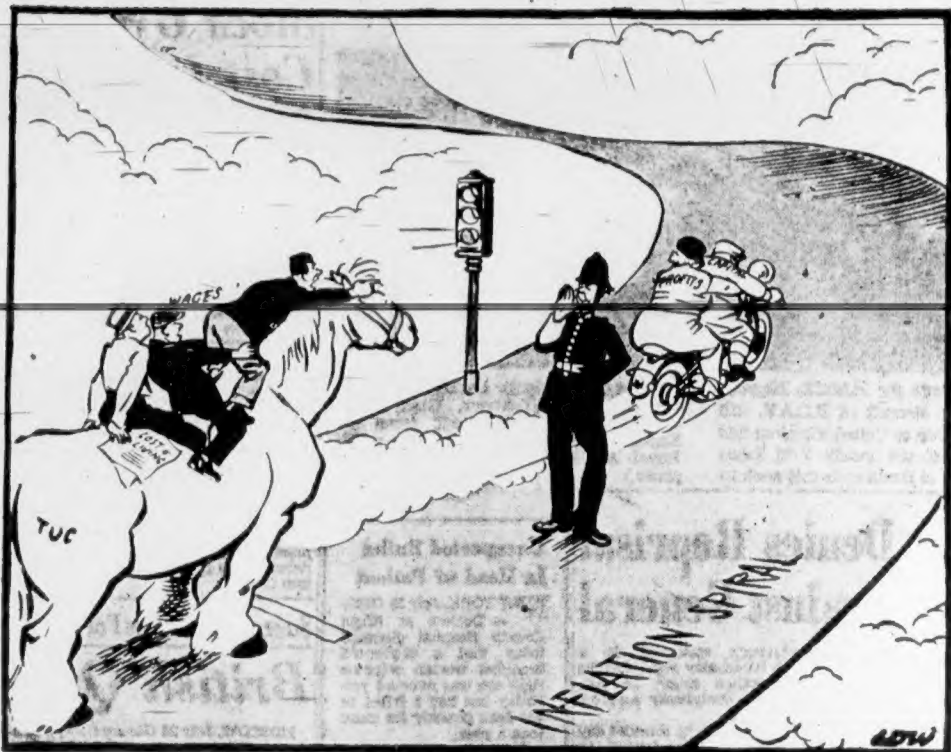

Not many men can ride two horses as long as they want to; no wonder the diplomatic Ike managed to keep such prima donnas as Monty and General Patton on the same stage.

The prophets, of course, are looking rather far ahead. Mr. Truman won't be due to retire to Independence, Missouri, for a good 18 months yet, assuming as they do that he is ready to retire, which isn't just as settled as might be. And the evolution of a presidential candidate is a tortuous process. Some unknown may interrupt midway before November 1952.

By then, incidentally, Winston Churchill will be 78 years old. He still looks cherubic, but nevertheless he won't be the man he was at 68, then in the middle of his glowing powers as prime minister. It won't do to take it for granted that, back in office, he could stand the gaff for long—or even that he should.

Then, too, these prognosticators leave Mr. Stalin out of account. He doesn't vote in either Britain or America but, alas, he holds a veto. Conceivably he could help the return of Mr. Churchill but in doing so he might keep Eisenhower out of the White House.

For the sandwiched Canadian, however, it's an interesting affair all round.

TRAFFIC IRREGULATION

Inertia Among Atlantic Powers

By H. J. J. SARGINT

North American Newspaper Alliance

LONDON.—It is thought here that General Eisenhower is finding it somewhat difficult to get together the 25 divisions which he hoped to have by the end of this year. This was the objective fixed by the Atlantic Pact defense organization, but well-informed observers in England believe that not more than 20 divisions will be ready for action unless certain European countries—particularly France—show more readiness to produce troops.

Emphasis was laid on this situation by the conference presided over by General Eisenhower in Paris last week when the troops to be allotted to the Central European sector of the Atlantic Pact region were considered. It is believed that one of the important matters discussed at this conference was whether a larger number of Western forces should be quartered in Germany.

It is remembered in England that General Eisenhower recently made a plea for European unity, and it seems clear now that his words reflected not only his honest and sincere belief in the need for that unity, but possibly also a certain sense of disappointment over the present state of affairs.

Military experts in this country go so far as to talk of a certain inertia as having developed among the Atlantic Pact powers and they say that some countries are unwilling to shoulder the necessary burdens. In particular there is a feeling that the French are dragging their feet, though the French point out that the long-drawn-out war in Indo-China has used up many professional and non-commissioned officers who are the very people wanted for raising and training the new brigades and divisions.

Another difficulty which this correspondent's military informants lay stress on is the slowness with which the Atlantic Pact's chain of command is being set up. Whatever hesitations the British government may still have about accepting the appointment of Admiral Fichtelner to the Atlantic naval command, that appointment should be made without further delay so as to allow the admiral to get on with his job.

It is hoped that these two questions—the raising of the necessary land forces and the ironing out of the arguments about the leadership at sea—may be settled soon, because, however early agreement is reached, it will not be a moment too soon.

Much attention is paid in London to the remarks of John J. McCloy, United States high commissioner in Germany who, speaking the other day on the defense contribution from Germany, said that the time was getting short and that if anything should be done it should be done now and not later. It is realized in England that General McCloy has a hard and uphill task in Germany and it would be a great personal triumph for him if he could devise some formula whereby the existing Wehrmacht there could be linked up with the Atlantic army. There is widespread doubt in England of this ever coming to pass and in well-informed semi-official quarters the opinion is firmly expressed in London that Western Germany will have to be given a great deal more than she has received or even been promised before she throws her troops into the general Western melting pot.

The latest developments about Middle Eastern defense are that, side by side with the admission of Greece and Turkey to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, there should be a Middle East defense council on which Britain, France, Greece, Turkey and the United States, in alphabetical order, should be represented. This is a British compromise and it meets the wishes of the United States that Greece and Turkey should join N.A.T.O., and Britain's desire that Turkey should continue to concern herself with the defense of the Middle East. It should be remembered that Turkey can put 30 divisions in the field and these divisions would be of immense assistance to the British forces, amounting to between 30,000 and 40,000 troops in that part of the world.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THE owner of one of the most crowded gourmet restaurants in Canada is not a chef himself, never worked his way up in hotels and restaurants, has no background in the fine art of cooking. But he has eaten well himself in various parts of Europe and America, and knows what a potato, a steak or a head of lettuce should taste like.

"I don't want any blooming chefs around this place," he declared indignantly, when one of those gourmets who infest the best eating places asked if he could meet the chef and congratulate him on some special dish. "Congratulations, I'm the chef. I hire cooks. And I tell them to leave food alone. I tell them just to cook it."

"As for sauces and all that fol de rol, anybody can get them out of a book. What I hire are characters who can read a book. They don't fiddle or fool with sauces. They make 'em according to the specifications laid down, just the same as if they were drug store clerks filling a prescription. I'm the doctor. When I started this business, I was kidded into hiring chefs. They started telling me what I would serve in my own restaurant. They had the place in an uproar with all their mysteries and incantations. What they produced had a taste all right; but there is no better taste to beef than beef, and no better flavor to beef than beef. A potato ought to taste like a potato. If anybody wants to come in here and order a $4 steak and then dump half a bottle of factory ketchup on it, that is cheaper than hiring a chef to fiddle with it. I just buy prime beef and burn it to the customer's order. When I told the chefs to leave the food alone, they quit. And I've been flourishing ever since. The art of cooking consists in injuring the food as little as possible."

When we asked him what he was going to have for dinner, himself, he replied that he did not yet know. "I never eat out," he said modestly. "I go home for dinner. My wife is the best cook in the world."

Senators, declaring they were "shocked" at the program's cost, went ahead with plans to cut this year's proposed outlay to $8,500,000,000.

Uncle Wiggily Story - -

By Howard Galt

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BIG SLIDE

The baseball game on Uncle Wiggily's raft, between the Scouts and Billie Wagtail's Goats, went on after Buster didn't make his home run. It seemed certain that, after knocking a long, high ball out over Frog Pond, Buster would bring in the first run. And a homer, at that.

But Jimmie Wiblewobble, the duck, raced out in his motorboat, caught the ball and threw it back to the catcher, Pootie Bow Wow, in time to cut off Buster at the home plate.

First, Buster's team was ahead and then Billie's team was ahead. At times it seemed as if the Scouts would win. Then it seemed as if the Goats would win.

"I declare!" exclaimed Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the umpire. "I never saw such a see-saw of a ball game."

There came a time when the Scouts had five runs. But the Goats also had five runs. Then it became too dark to play so Nurse Jane said:

"We will stop the game now and start it again tomorrow."

"Then we will win!" declared Buster.

"My Goats will beat your Scouts," bleated Billie Wagtail.

"All right, boys," said Uncle Wiggily. "Tomorrow will tell the story. Now it is time to eat."

"Hurrah!" shouted the Scouts and Goats.

"Will there be any ice cream with the cake?" asked Buster.

"Yes," answered Nurse Jane. "Not only ice cream but candy and popcorn in honor of the two baseball teams."

Next day the game went on again and, after hard work, Buster's Scouts won by a score of 13 to 11.

But Billie Wagtail's Goat team didn't mind so much that they were beaten. For Uncle Wiggily said something that made all the boys forget about baseball for awhile. Calling the two teams to him the rabbit gentleman said:

"I want all of you to help me build a new amusement on my raft."

"What is it, daddy?" asked Buster.

"It is going to be a big slide—a high, big slide," answered the rabbit gentleman.

"Do you mean a Shoot the Chute, daddy?" asked Buster.

"That's it," his father replied. "Bossun, Uncle Buster and Mr. Turfing will help us, for there is much work to do to build the slide."

The work was soon started. Aboard the raft were many sticks and boards, brought by Grandpa Whackum, the beaver carpenter, and his grandsons, Tooth and Noodle. First some tall poles were set up near the merry-go-round. To the poles were fastened boards. And the sliding-down boards were made very smooth so there would be no splinters to stick anybody.

Uncle Wiggily's big slide reached from the merry-go-round out to Uncle Buster's shooting gallery. It was as high as anything and there was a ladder to climb to the top. Once at the top all you had to do was to sit down and slide. At last the slide was finished.

"I will go down first," said Uncle Wiggily. "I want to be sure that my big slide will be safe for even little children."

The rabbit gentleman climbed the ladder to the top of the slide. He sat down. He pushed himself. Then he began to slide down. He went fast! Then he went faster and faster and faster.

"Wiggily sure is sliding!" bleated Uncle Buster. "He's almost at the end of the slide now. Wow!"

"Oh! Oh!" screamed Nurse Jane. "I don't believe Uncle Wiggily can stop! He is going too fast. He will pop off the end of the slide right into Frog Pond! Oh! Oh! Oh!"

Do not worry, boys and girls. Uncle Wiggily is going to be saved in a very funny way.

I will tell you about it on Saturday, if the sink doesn't throw the coconut custard pie at the face of the clock so the stove can't tell what time it is to get breakfast.

Miniature Golf Course Opens

City athlete Art Chapman gives Mrs. R. P. MacMillan a few pointers on how to crack par on Fountain Golf Club during opening night Thursday. Mrs. MacMillan, wife of Ald. Miniature Golf Course Has Premiere-Type Debut

Golfers' duffers and divot-diggers can breathe easily. City alderman Robert MacMillan and his partner Robert Jackson opened their club-swingers' paradise last night, all 8,076 inches of miniature golf course.

The 18-hole Fountain Golf Club on Gorge Road made its debut with all the hoopla of a Hollywood premiere. Kilted pipers Dinah Kerr and Mary Fletcher skied "The Road to the Isles," as city athlete Arthur Chapman socked out the first ball to declare the course officially open.

FOUR FEET SHORT

His ball landed about four feet from the pin on the short practice hole.

Colwood pro Fred Burns and Upland's Walter Gravin were followed by Scotty Nelson, 84, the "oldest ball-shagger in the country."

Master of ceremonies Don Wilson introduced the guests.

The miniature course was a favorite of the early 30's.

Use of Stall Granted For Two More Months

Mrs. Barbara Green, volunteer social worker, will be given permission to use a Public Market stall for another two months for operation of her plan to give surplus food to the needy.

City council's finance committee gave approval yesterday, and sent a letter of thanks to Mrs. Green for her community-spirited effort.

"I think it is a grand effort, despite the opposition by Ald. Mulliner," declared Ald. Walter Skilling.

"I am not against the extension, but instead of being a one person affair, I think it could be merged with the Salvation Army. They have been doing this sort of thing for years. It's nothing new," replied Ald. Mulliner.

CREDIT DEE
Ald. Dr. J. D. Hunter agreed that Mrs. Green has a lot of credit coming to her.

Five rural stations have been set up as collection points for foodstuffs donated to the stall.

Mrs. Green said donated foodstuffs could be taken to the stations on the Fridays before the stall was to be open.

The goods would be picked up

Mrs. Green said she hoped stations would also be set up at Colwood, Metcalm and other nearby areas.

Also in Washington, the U.S. House voted to limit U.S. contributions to the U.N. and other international organizations to no more than 33 1/3 per cent of the total upkeep cost. Last year the country paid 38.9 per cent of U.N. operating expenses.

B.C. First Province to Pave Way for Pensions

Your Gestures Give You Away

Know how to spot a fourflusher by his handshake? A shrewd strategist by the way he smokes? The typical gesture of demagogues like Hitler? What movement tells a lawyer he's got a witness on the spot?

August Reader's Digest tells how gestures reveal your character, in a fascinating condensation from William H. Ziff's popular book, Your Life.

A warm, extroverted person gestures outward, inward gestures betray coldness, inhibition. Read how you can judge character by gestures.

Get your August Reader's Digest today. At a special feature interest condensed from leading magazines, current books.

British Columbia was the first province in Canada to pass enabling legislation to permit payment of old-age pensions.

Pensions have been paid in the province since September, 1927, when the B.C. government approved a federal plan for payment of a pension of $20 a month to indigent persons 70 and over who were British subjects with at least 20 years' residence in Canada.

The federal government paid one-half of the original pensions, the province the other half.

In 1931 legislation was passed at Ottawa making the federal government responsible for 75 per cent of the cost of the pension.

In 1937 an amendment to the Old-Age Pension Act provided pensions for blind persons over 40.

Pensions were increased to $30 and maximum allowable income including pension was raised to $600 a year in 1947.

In 1949, pensions were increased to $40 a month.

It was in 1950 that discussion first started in Ottawa on the plan for a contributory pension for all persons 70 and over to be administered by the federal provinces. The Old-Age Security Act for persons 70 and over is to be administered by the federal government.

The British North America Act was amended by Ottawa in May, with the unanimous consent of the provinces, to give the federal government authority to proceed with the new program.

This June the Old-Age Assistance Act was passed to provide financial assistance, in cooperation with the provinces, for persons in the 65-to-69 age group, subject to an eligibility test. In the same month the Blind Persons' Act was passed with a similar, but more generous, eligibility test than that for old-age assistance.

The new scheme becomes effective January 1.

The Old-Age Assistance Act provides for blind persons over 40.

Pensions were increased to $30 and maximum allowable income including pension was raised to $600 a year in 1947.

VANCOUVER, July 26—Victoria Athletics leave Vancouver for Salem tomorrow, and the Caps will be glad to see them go. The W.L.L. co-leaders squared the four-game series to-night with a 3-2 victory but could have lost all four games except for some good luck.

The A's will leave without Ron Smith, veteran righthander. Smith was sold tonight to the Caps as the A's got down to the league player limit. His place on the pitching staff will be taken by

WINNING RUN "STOLEN"
 Smith took over and hurried well in his farewell appearance. He blanked the Caps until the ninth, when Bob McGuire got a blooper triple to right with one out. Caps tried a squeeze play with Ray Tran at bat. Smith threw wide of the plate. Tran missed the ball but so did Catcher Milt Martin. A bit over-anxious—and McGuire plated the winning run. He was given credit for a stolen base.

MISS CHANCES
 The A's missed chances in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings, when double plays wiped out the side. They loaded the bases with no one out in the eighth and failed to score. Martin struck out and Dave Dierks grounded into a brilliant double play engineered by Tran. Defensive highlights were supplied by Gene Thompson with a fine catch of a base-hit bid by Vancouver's Dick Snovik and Snovik, who took a hit away from Sturgeon with another good outfield play.

CLUTCH HITTING
 Vollmer continued his terrific clutch hitting, producing three home runs to pace the Red Sox to a 13-10 conquest of Chicago White Sox.

Rival Unions Battling Over City Plant Hiring

Dispute over hiring of new employees for construction of a $2,000,000 B.C. Forest Products Ltd. plywood plant in Victoria has resolved itself into a battle of rival unions.

Victoria Building Trades Council (A.F.L.-T.C.L.) yesterday claimed the International Woodworkers of America (I.O.O.F.) had violated an agreement signed in 1944.

PRITCHETT FACT

They said Harold Pritchett, I.W.A. district president at that time, told the carpenters' and joiners' provincial council that his union agreed that new construction work be within the jurisdiction of the carpenters' union, but not maintenance work.

Seventh-Day Adventists Gather For 10-Day Camp Meeting

Denominational leaders, missionaries and ministers will attend the annual 10-day camp meeting conference of the Seventh-Day Adventists of British Columbia which opens at Hope today.

A large delegation is expected to attend from Victoria. Hope was selected by the church several years ago as the site of a permanent camp.

More than 2,000 worshippers are expected to attend the services Saturday, the Sabbath of the Adventist faith.

Feature attraction this year will be personal appearances at the camp of the Voice of Prophecy radio group, international radio broadcasters.

H. M. S. Richards, Voice of Prophecy speaker, and D. L. Olson, associate speaker, will both be heard.

Value of Instruments And Laboratory Tests

By DR. J. B. WARREN

Some of our older physicians think that graduates in medicine today depend too much on laboratory findings and various tests, and so do not use their knowledge and their brains as much as before these new methods and tests were discovered. However, if the physician can get an instrument that photographs the lining of the stomach, or a tiny mirror that slips down the throat and enables him to actually see the lining of the stomach, he may be able to tell whether the stomach symptoms are caused by an inflammation (gastritis) or by an ulcer or cancer.

Champlain established his first settlement at Quebec with 27 men.

Long Waiting Queues Eliminated By C.P.R.'s Numbered Disk Plan

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

Numbered disks are adding to efficiency of operations at the C.P.R.'s Government Street ticket office.

When a customer enters the office he is given one of the disks. Then he can sit down and relax until his number is called.

During the heavy travel season, has eliminated long waiting queues. It is especially helpful for women with small children, and for elderly people.

NOOKA DUE

The destroyer Nooka will reach Esquimalt at 1 p.m. Tuesday. She will berth at Jetty No. 52—H.M.C.S. Naden, before starting on the last leg of her journey home to Halifax from the Korean war.

She left Japan shortly after arrival of her relief, the destroyer Cayuga, from Esquimalt.

Three island men are aboard the Nooka: Lieut. A. H. M. Slater, Duncan; Sublieut. R. Ratcliffe, 420 Victoria; and P.O. C. J. Owsand, 410 Victoria.

The Nooka has been praised by the commander of naval forces in the far east.

Vice-Admiral C. E. Joy, U.S.N., sent this message to Nooka's Cmdr. A. R. Fraser-Harris:

"The Nooka has earned a most creditable record. She has performed her share of the U.N. effort in a manner which will cause her to be missed on the line. Well done. May you have good luck and smooth sailing."

May Ask Municipalities To Share Gallery Costs

Greater Victoria municipalities may be asked to contribute towards maintenance costs of the Moss Street Spencer home which has been offered to the city as a civic arts centre.

Several aldermen think outside municipalities should share the cost, and at a finance committee meeting yesterday Ald. Waldo Skillings said:

"I will not approve of this gift unless all municipalities share in the maintenance."

Action on the offer is awaiting a report from city manager C. C. Wyatt on terms and conditions.

INTERIM REPORT

Mr. Wyatt submitted an interim report which showed that at July this year membership of the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria was 383. Victoria members totaled 206 or 53.8 per cent; Oak Bay 102 or 26.6 per cent; Esquimalt 7 or 1.8 per cent; Saanich 41 or 10.7 per cent; and others 27 or 7.1 per cent.

Solicitor J. Ronald Grant informed the committee that it was the intention of Miss Sara Spencer that the property be held by the city in trust as an art gallery with the Arts Centre handling management and operation.

NEED GRANT

He said the centre could not operate the home without a city grant.

The city manager reported estimated maintenance costs would be $1,500 a year and the city would lose an additional $1,100 in taxes.

He said consideration should be given to sharing maintenance costs on the basis of membership.

AWAITING WORD

Although keenly interested in news about possible peace in Korea, men serving aboard the destroyer Sioux are not displaying too much optimism.

This report comes from Lieut. Cmdr. Patrick C. Benson, executive officer of the Sioux, here on a temporary special duty from the Korean war zone.

Morale continues to remain high, Cmdr. Benson reports, "and while the men are naturally anxious to get home, most of them want to stay long enough to get everything straightened up."

The Sioux is on her second assignment in the Korean theatre.

Sioux has taken a leading role in bombardments of enemy-held shore points, and during one attack on Yonsan was fired upon by five shore batteries, Cmdr. Benson said.

BOUY DISPLACED

Mariners are advised that Moodyville buoy, Vancouver Harbour, has been dragged out of position and will be replaced on position next week.

The Shell Oil barge at the entrance to Vancouver Harbour has been relocated 200 feet east of its former position.

Anti-aircraft firing practice will be carried out by units of the Coast Artillery between 9 and 11 a.m. today, between 9 and 11 a.m. tomorrow and Tuesday in an area between Race Rocks and Discovery Island.

Coast artillery firing practice will be held from William Head between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, seaward in an arc from Brothie Ledge to Race Rocks. Danger radius will be 10,000 yards.

JUTE IN DEMAND

KARACHI (C.P.)—Foreign buyers are queuing up for Pakistan's jute. "Already, orders have been received for 4,500,000 bales out of a total quota of 5,100,000 bales earmarked for foreign buyers (excluding India) from next year's crop."

"C'MON A-MY-CAR—MY CAR... C'MON ON

In San Francisco, waited until the cable car had swung around on its turntable, & then I grabbed the kids, and like all the others we scrambled up on the seats so we could sit out in the open, & gawk at the sights. There was a handsome colored man at the controls, & I guessed they picked him for his President smile and for the rakish way he wore his cap. Now, like all colored folks, he had a natural sense of rhythm, but on the face of it, you wouldn't think he could do much with a cable car, but we weren't on there 2 split seconds before we realized he could almost make that awkward thing sing & dance. "All right everybody," he sang, "hang on to your hats, 'cause here we go," and

WHAT ABOUT PRIVATE HOSPITAL INSURANCE PLANS?

Many people have asked, "Why don't private hospital insurance plans operate in B.C.?"

Private hospital insurance plans do not operate in B.C. because they can not match B.C.H.I.S. services for the same low premium. When the government introduced Hospital Insurance, provision was made whereby any existing plan could continue operation providing it could give equal benefits and coverage. Private plans could not do this and as a result left the field.

When comparisons are made between B.C.H.I.S. and private plans, it is often forgotten that B.C.H.I.S. covers everyone, and seldom remembered that private plans were restricted in services and in membership. As a result, their benefits were limited to certain groups. In most cases, private plans select the people they will insure, and limit what they will cover.

For example, many private plans do not insure against the re-occurrence of a previous ailment, nor insure anyone over a certain age. This feature automatically excludes a large number of people. Private plans did a good job as far as they went, but they didn't go far enough. They were not designed to meet the needs of the people of B.C.

The people of B.C. needed a Hospital Insurance plan. Before B.C.H.I.S. started in 1949, nearly one out of every three persons could not pay his hospital bill. Many hospitals were losing money and cities, municipalities and the provincial government had to give cash grants to keep them in operation. Something had to be worked out to protect the people from high hospital bills, and at the same time help the hospitals. B.C.H.I.S. was the answer. B.C. citizens can now enjoy protection against large hospital bills for acute care.

Some people have said, "Give the Hospital Insurance plan back to the private plans", without considering that private plans operated before B.C.H.I.S. They operated in the midst of the conditions which made B.C.H.I.S. necessary. They didn't solve the overall situation in 1948, and they wouldn't solve it now. Private plans were good as far as they went, but they didn't go far enough to solve B.C.'s problems. To return to private plans would mean a return to conditions similar to those of 1948.

It's true that B.C.H.I.S. premiums have increased, but private plans could not have kept their premiums down in the face of rising hospital costs. If they were still in operation and giving similar coverage, their premiums would most likely be more than those now charged by B.C.H.I.S.

B.C.H.I.S. has accomplished its major objectives. People may now have protection against large hospital bills for acute care, and the hospitals are now in a position to operate on a sound financial basis.

Next week, we will discuss "What about the different hospital public ward rates?"

Be sure to read these messages. They deal with your Hospital Insurance plan—a plan which has already paid over $40,000,000 for more than 300,000 hospital cases, and is providing benefits for thousands more each month.
